

Practical experience training year with Atelier Löwentor

Dear Student,

Are you looking for a position for your practical experience training year? We are looking for a trainee/intern who can act on his or her own initiative – and who wants to learn.

You can work on your own, either analog or digital. Thinking and contributing is your strength, you can quickly grasp and perform new tasks. During your practical experience training year, you want to stay with your projects, from the initial idea right through to realization – and work on the interface between design and programming.

Your second home is the World Wide Web. You know it well and you feel comfortable in that environment. You're extremely interested in Usability and have some practical experience in the field of Internet Programming.

You're currently studying at college or university, with Media Design or a similar subject as your main subject. You've had some experience with the established DTP programs in the Adobe Creative Suite. You also have a basic knowledge of any animation software and 3D software programs – and if not, you're willing to work at learning all about them.

In the Atelier Löwentor, you'll encounter a team of designers who have a love of detail and who enjoy innovative approaches. Our main focus is on Corporate Design. We develop cross-media implementations – and we're looking forward to reinforcing our team, especially our Internet crew!

After your year of practical experience with us, we may also be interested in a longer-term cooperation with you – and working together, we can tailor a university graduate course to match your special talents.

We look forward to receiving your application in electronic form!

P.S. You even have Fridays off!
